I have not yet chosen a college, but I will be studying journalism in the fall. I have been raised in a Catholic environment, so receiving this award means that I have been serving my community in a meaningful way and living up to their expectations of me. I strive to live this out in all areas of my life, including my student journalism and volunteering.

Jack Hulsey

I plan on furthering my education at St. Lawrence University after high school and studying engineering and physics. The Hands of Christ award means a lot to me since I have been very involved in the church since a young age, altar serving and helping at soup kitchens, it means a lot to me to receive this award.

Kate Tanner

I will be attending Ithaca College to study Biology in the fall. The Hands of Christ award means a lot to me, as I am always making an effort to be supportive and try to give kind words to others in my daily encounters. I also strive to be a positive and engaged contributor to society now and in the future. Receiving this award means a great deal as it makes me feel as though I am the positive and important contributor to my community that I am always striving to be.

Gabrielle Kashorek

Service has been central to my life since my elementary school days at St. Agnes School. God blesses us through service and I am honored to receive this award! I plan to attend Nazareth College where I will pursue a career helping others as an occupational therapist.

Joe Frazer

I'm pursuing a Construction Management degree at the SUNY College of Environmental Science and Forestry (ESF) in Syracuse, NY.

The Hands in Christ award means being the best person you can, around your peers and in the community.

Alyssa Smith

After high school I am going to Rochester Institute of Technology and will be studying Diagnostic Medical Sonography. To me being the Hands of Christ means I am bringing brightness into people's days as much as I can.

Maeve Gaynor

I believe that being the "Hands of Christ" is to give back to the community and spread the word of God, as Jesus did in his lifetime and in the Bible. As I have gotten older, I have realized how important it is to me to be involved in my community and to put others before myself. I will attend St. John Fisher in the fall to study nursing.
